

Reliant and The Persimmon Group Announce Strategic Partnership

Tulsa, OK. — February 26, 2010 — The management consulting firm, The Persimmon Group, and Reliant, a leader in employee assessment, learning, performance management and survey technology, have announced a strategic partnership. Specifically, Reliant has selected The Persimmon Group to be its implementation partner for clients who have purchased the Reliant Learning Management System (LMS).

According to Bersin & Associates research, a majority of companies surveyed cited frustration with the LMS implementation process as their chief complaint with Learning Management Systems. According to Reliant's CEO, Dr. Chris Wright, "We believe the LMS implementation process is critical and we have selected one of the top project management consulting firms to be our implementation partner. This partnership will provide Reliant LMS clients with the best possible implementation process managed by a team of experienced project management experts, ensuring that the LMS implementation is on time, on budget and meets client expectations."

"We are excited about partnering with Reliant not only because of their technology, but also their commitment to their customers and ensuring that client expectations are met. This partnership underscores The Persimmon Group's commitment to help companies improve their people, processes and tools using a holistic approach to project management," said Bill Fournet, The Persimmon Group's CEO and founder.
